"RAPCO" POST CARD

CARTE POSTALE.

HAM HOUSE, SURREY.

Belonging to the Earl of Dysart and filled with historical treasures of every kind. It is an interesting specimen of Jacobean architecture, and was built in the reign of James I by Sir Thomas Vavasor, the date 1610 being carved over the principal doorway. The row of lead and stone busts above the ground floor windows is an original feature, and possesses great decorative value.

Handwritten Japanese text in vertical columns, likely a postscript or message.
